Nicepage Website Design & Development Services Reviews Darby Ross August 22, 2017 In our home business, we needed a web development company for a client who wanted a website. After the web development company had their chance to look at their website, they found out that it wasn't compliant with the new Google Rich Snippets. The web development company was able to fix the issues and make it compliant, but the website was not designed properly and the design was not professional. We asked for a revision to their website and they accepted. The web development company then told us that they were no longer able to do the website for us and that we would need to find a different company that would be able to do the website. So, after we were done with our site, we looked around to see what other options there were and found a couple companies to try. We also found a couple of websites that had tons of great reviews and bad reviews, so we looked at those as well. The company we ended up choosing was called Nicepage. We did a lot of research on Nicepage, so it wouldn't be Fully responsive, mobile-optimized design and many more. We are ready to start your project! What is web design? First of all, I'd like to tell you that a web designer is a person who builds a website from the ground up. Usually, this job is reserved for developers. A web designer usually comes up with the idea, and a developer completes it by converting the idea into a functioning web application. So, a web designer creates a website and a developer builds it. Designers must know their stuff, though, because they need to know how the pieces of the website fit together. Besides the user-friendly interface of a web design tool, they also need to understand how the interface of a website works, how its pages are organized and what kind of content should appear in each page. At first, it might seem like a creative job, but after a while, it will become more of a logical task. And this, of course, includes understanding how web browsers work. After all, this is how the site will appear to visitors. Still, the more web designers learn about the things they're responsible for, the better they will be in their jobs. This is why web design education is one of the most popular areas of study among students and professionals. All in all, it seems like a very valuable field that anyone who wants to work in the web design industry can benefit from. So if you're reading this, you might be wondering whether or not web design is for you. So let's just dive in and have a look at what web design really entails. Advantages of web design As I said earlier, there are plenty of advantages that web designers can enjoy. Since web design has become an increasingly
